(b) Neither party shall be entitled to claim relief in respect of any period during which it could have complied with any obligation (or any part thereof) by using reasonable commercial efforts to avoid, overcome or minimize wholly or partly the effects of the Event or combination of Events.
(c) In order for an Event to be beyond the reasonable control of a party, the Event must result directly from an act of God; act of war (whether or not formally declared); foreign invasion or act of foreign enemies; riot; civil strife; act of terrorism (whether domestic or foreign); embargo; governmental rule, regulation or decree; shortage of gas, electricity or other fuel; natural disaster such as earthquake, flood, fire, hurricane, tornado, or other inclement weather; strike, lockout, or other labour disturbance or the shortage or unavailability of labour or materials; loss of data due to power failures or the unavailability of accessing information storage or retrieval systems resulting from third party (hacker) actions; changes in laws including government regulations; or the failure of any third party supplier, contractor or subcontractor to perform its or their obligations or contractual commitments; or any other events or circumstances not within the reasonable control of the party affected, whether similar or dissimilar to any of the foregoing and shall include, without limitation, a declared pandemic by the World Health Organization.

The non-performing party shall furnish the other party with detailed written periodic reports regarding the progress of the Event. The non-performing party shall use reasonable diligence to minimize damages and to resume performance.
(f) If an Event continues for more than 180 consecutive days, then the other party (but not the nonperforming party) may terminate this Agreement upon written notice to the nonperforming party.
(g) Notwithstanding the generality of the foregoing, nothing in these General Terms and Conditions operates to excuse either party from the prompt payment of amounts owing under the Agreement, nor will a lack of financial resources or financial ability on the part of either party be or be deemed to be an Event, including (without limitation) any bankruptcy, insolvency or other creditor protection action taken by or against either party.
- 13. Acceptance of Delivery. A bill of lading or delivery shall accompany each delivery of equipment. Such bill of lading or delivery must be signed for by an authorized representative of Customer or Customer's Carrier upon receipt of delivery of equipment.
