The fall-arrest system for formwork and structure shell

This system is the universal safety solution for all edge protection needs. It fits in ideally with Doka systems – be they wall or floor-slab formwork – for safeguarding slab-edges or as fall-arrest barriers on the structure shell.

All-in-one system for fall protection on both formwork and structure shell

Multi-functional

- with only one type of upright for all types of sideguards
- for formwork, stairways and structure edges
- thanks to its different connectors covering all applications

Quick and easy to erect with easy-click function for higher productivity

Ergonomically engineered

- with a logical set-up procedure that makes the system quick and self-explanatory to use
- for easy handling
- thanks to sturdy lightweight construction
- with captively integrated parts, which also cuts costs

Revolutionary bottom-fixed height extenders for the uprights grating heights of up to 1.80 m are possible with 20 percent fewer uprights

This ingenious system

- provides full safety up to 1.20 m, with only one upright
- can be extended to 1.80 m simply by adding a specially developed bottom-fixed height extender for the upright
- covers all applications perfectly with just two types of upright, obviating the need to keep many different types available onsite

Tested safety to purchase or rent

Rent it to get experience with it, and purchase as needed

- hot-dip galvanised and extremely sturdy
- EN 13374-compliant equipment bearing the GS Mark
- detailed User Information booklet
- dimensioning diagrams including wind-loads

Edge protection system XP – one type of upright for all types of edge protection (timber, grating and scaffold tubes)

Easy-Click function – quick and easy
